HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOC. ORGANIZED IN STRATHMORE

A very representatives audience assembled at the High School last Friday evening to hear Mr and Mrs Pannabaker of Calgary discuss the merits of the Home and School Association.

There were about 35 present, with Principal Crowther acting as Chairman.

Mr Pannabaker stated the value of the H. & S. for teachers, parents and pupils, and emphasized that the primary purpose is the development of boys and girls.

The H. & S. should be a driving force in the community in respect to boys and girls. The H. & S. should know what are the educational features outside of school, what the conditions for recreation, and social improvement.

The H. & S. is not a means to get supplies for the school.

It is not a L. A. to the Principal.

It is not a place where parents may bring their indivilual grievances and air them. This should always be done privately.

The principle is much broader.

It should be a means of study of all factors which make for child development. And for what values for the school staff, and the chief value is increased under co-operation between Teacher, Parent and Pupil.

Johnny is deserving of more interest than just the teaching of so much arithmetic, etc. because he is a growing individual.

In a properly functioning association there will develop in the community as a whole a live interest for general development.

The speaker gave as a pretty sound definition of education the answer he once received from a boy.

"To read the signs at the cross roads and know the way to go."

Mrs Pannabaker who is actively associated wit hthe H. & S. organization, gave the purpose and mechanical set up.

There are today 50 affiliated associations in Alberta. The organization consists of the Local, Provincial, Canadian and International.

In 1927 the H. & S. Association met in Toronto with 32 countries represented and at that gathering the Canadian as well as International Groups were organized.

After some discussion a motion to organize an Association in Strathmore was passed.

The following officers being elected—

Hon. President ------ The Principal
President ---------- Rev. S. R. Hunt
1st Vice-President ---- Mrs. N. White
2nd Vice-President-- Mrs McParland
Secretary --------- Mrs. Geo. Quirin
Treasurer ---------- Mr. D. McMurray
Chairman of Program Committee ---
---------- S. H. Crowther

Third Victory Loan

The executive committee for the Third Victory Loan met last Friday evening and pretty well completed organization plans.

Canvassers were appointed and zones arranged. The committee thought it wiser to delay canvassing until the harvest is more nearly completed.

A spirit of determined optimism prevailed and the members are going all out to put this district over the top as in previous Loans.

Mr. Speers of Calgary gave an earnest and helpful address prior to organizing the campaign.

THE 'OUT-SIDE'

● The Empire Hotel Ltd., of Timmins, Ont., was fined $1,000 and costs by Magistrate S. Atkinson in a tea hoarding case. Defence counsel contended the offence was only a technical breach of the regulations, but Magistrate Atkinson said the three year supply of tea on hand in the hotel stock was an unreasonable amount within the meaning of the act.

● Reported to be the youngest Canadian to command a submarine-chaser Sub-Lieut. George E. Burrell, 23 R. C. N. V. R., Calgary, has been promoted to command his ship. Son of Mr and Mrs G. E. Burrell, he is believed to be the first lower deck rating to rise to the command of a sea-going and fighting ship in the Canadian navy.

● "Sam," said the Colonel to his Negro cook, 'I'm having special company on Thursday and I want your best turkey dinner. Now(, none of your wild fowl. Get me a domestic, corn-fed turkey. Do you understand?"

"Yah, suh, yah suh," replied Sam.

Came the festive affair. Placed before the Colonel was a beautiful done to perfection turkey. He was pleased until he made the first cut. Then he frowned. Then a second cut. He held his knife and called his cook from the kitchen.

"Sam, didn't I tell you I wanted a domestic, corn-fed bird?"

"Yah, suh, yah suh— dat am a domestic, corn-fed bird."

"Well, then," said the Colonel "how about this shot here and there?"

"Well, suh," said Sam, shuffling from one foot to the other, "yuh see, suh, dat shot war meant fer me."

● Sgt. Douglas Matheson of Edmonton in a letter to his mother said the battle of Dieppe was "a super example of co-ordination between all three services."

● Dr. Sydney Smith, president of the University of Manitoba, announced Wednesday that if a male student manifests that he has not worked hard at his studies his name will be forwarded to teh national services board with the suggestion that he be called to the army immediately.

● Canadian education is playing a heroic part in the war and will play an equally heroic and significant part in the post-war period, Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, told members of the Canada and Newfoundland Education Association in convention at Victoria.

● Hundreds of vacant buildings in New York City will be torn down to aid the scrap metal drive, according to the New York Herald Tribune.

● Vancouver city council will protest to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board at Ottawa against the proposed closing of small shops at 8 p.m. and DeWitt Hart, representing 200 small stores, stated that small shops will remain open in defiance of the order.

● A British merchantman tied up at a Staten Island pier sank by weight of water poured into her forward holds to extinguish a fire.

●What After the New Order—

Boatswain Alfred Gwynn Vanderbilt received another $5,000,000 of his $20,000,000 inheritance on his 30th birthday. He will receive the final $5,000,000in 1947.

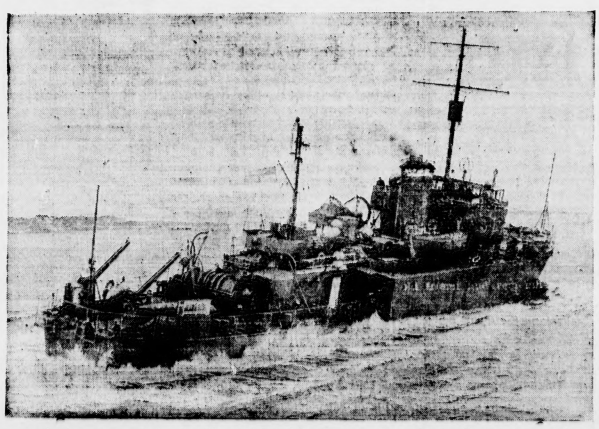
A NEW SWIFT MINESWEEPER FOR THE R. C. N.



A new type of minesweeper, faster and equipped with latest weapons, is the Bangor. Manned by the courageous fighting men of the Royal Canadian Navy, ships of the Bangor class are carrying a heavy share of the battle of the United Nations against the enemy at sea. They have been particularly effective in coastal patrol and protective operations in the St. Lawrence.

HOMEY HOMILY

—BY A SKY PILOT—

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE AND THEIR RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

A father of three children recently said to me— "There's one thing sure, I'm not a goin' to MAKE my kids go to Church or Sunday School if dey doan wanna go demselves. My father made me go so d---- much when I was a kid that I doan wanna see the inside of a Church agin. I got so heart-'ly sick of it as a kid."

This was in answer to my question as to the relationship of the family to the church. The whole conversation revealed the mind of a man who prided himself in the wisdom of his way of life with an ill-concealed contempt for those who would interest themselves in the spiritual cultivation of human nature.

Every brother minister knows scores of this type of men who excuse their neglect of the church by saying they got too much religion when young. They were so overfed on religious activities that the spiritual food soured on their spiritual stomach and left them with a permanent nauseating indigestion in the spiritual realm. This type of human specie is not uncommon.

My interest in the kind of home such a man would make for his family was aroused. I had heard much of this family years ago where they had left the community shortly before I became minister of the Church in which this spiritual overfeeding had taken place. He did not know this that I had his family history.

The children were noisily playing in the farm yard of his home and revealing the possession of a vocabulary of profanity that would have been the envy of an old-time lumber-jack!

The mother in better surroundings would have been a very attractive woman, but her mental outlook had become drab with all the signs of a spirit of hopeless resignation to her uncongenial surroundings. She was still young enough to brighten right up under the stimulus of my conversation with her in which I had proof that she once held much higher ideals.

In the house there was lacking all the atmosphere of a real home, not due to lack of funds since for the outside work every labour-saving machine was in evidence, but none for the mother in the home. Spiritual, not financial poverty was the atmosphere.

Reading matter visible consisted of half a dozen cheap magazines of doubtful repute. Along with the usual inevitable calendars the wall was adorned with front cover pictures of magazines which did their best to assail one's sense of decency and fitness, while evidence of art, music, poetry or decent literature were entirely lacking. The words of well known verse forced themselves into my mind.

"For what is man better than sheep or goats, that nourish a blind life within the brain
If knowing God they lift not hands prayer?"

Here, I thought, were human beings degenerating into mere "working-sleeping-feeding and propogating animals." To be really fully human is to feel the stirrings of the Divine within our souls and to maincain contact with the Eternal Spirit of the Universe.

Another mother once confessed to me that she liked to send her children to Sunday School because then "they are put from under foot for a while and I know they are not gettin' into mischief!" What a priceless appreciation of the function and earnestness of the Sunday School workers there was in that confession!

What this mother did not know was that the pennies with which she thought she was buying this service found their way into the Confectioner Store at the Corner. A true reflection in the children of the mother's appraisal of the worth of the Sunday School!

The scene of another home in the same town and Church where the father above mentioned had been so "overfed" on spiritual things rose before my mind. One that bore marks of culture and refinement. The father was highly respected and moderately successful business man who took his whole family to Church and Sunday School every Sunday. The mother a good homemaker with high ideals. The two children never missed Sunday School nor Church with their father. The teenage boy played in the Sunday School Orchestra, ushered in Church and taught a boy's class in Sunday School as well as giving all the help he could with the Young People's work. So far from being nauseated by all this, as my friend claimed to have become in the same church under the same teachers, this boy is now one of our younger, but very efficient ministers; and his sister — well, she married a minister. How were these widely different results obtained under almost identical circumstances?

The answer is— The Home Life. In the first two cases cited above neither Church nor Sunday School were respected in the Home while the latter home the parents built their home life upon the corner stone of spiritual fellowship with their children. Parents who merely send their children to Sunday School and who themselves take no interest or part in the work of the Church must realize that they are depending upon a miracle to overcome home influence, if they desire to have instilled into the lives of their children an appreciation of the spiritual values of life.

Religious leaders and teachers all know that the effectiveness of their work with the children is always conditioned by the atmosphere of the home from which these children come. Parents are anxious to bestow upon their children the best they can give them in life, but seldom realize that an appreciation of finer spiritual attributes is the choicest legacy they can leave them. Other possessions that we might be able to give them can be taken away or lost by the vicissitudes of fickle fortune, but a strong faith in God is a mighty tower of strength in every circumstance of life. Why not endow our children with this heaven sent gift from God?

TEMPORARY GRAIN BINS MADE WITH SNOW FENCE

As a practical and low cost solution to the problem of storing grain durlag the present emergency, a granary made of snow fence and tar paper is suggested. Many farmers have already constructed this type of bin, which can be put up in a very short time and after the need forthis emergency storage has passed there is very good salvage value.

The bin is made by arranging 50 feet of snow fence in a circle and lining the sides and bottom with tar paper. The top is also covered with tar paper on which sheaves or straw may be placed, in order to give a good firm covering. The grain should be piled up in the center to give good drainage. Such a bin will hold approximately 700 bushels of grain.

For bins constructed outside, tar paper not only protects the grain against the weather, but also against rats, field mice, etc. Tar paper might leave a slight taint or odor in wheat. It is therefore recommended that in cases where wheat is being stored and is to be sold later, an inner lining of dry building paper should be used. This costs very little extra. In the case of barley or oats, and in the case of wheat, where it is to be used later for feed, this inner lining is not necessary. There are two grades of tar paper available, as well as dry building paper, but for the small extra cost of no. 1 grade, it is to be highly recommended.

OUR NEW MODERN PREMISES

Air-Conditioned For Your Health and Comfort

THIS modern building now being erected will contain ten thousand square feet of floor space and will be fully air-conditioned to protect the health of the students. This means there are no variations of temperature—no open windows to cause draughts and resulting colds. Fresh air will be brought from outside of the building, and filtered and heated under thermostatic control. This pure air is uniformly distributed to every part of the college premises, a complete change taking place every fifteen minutes. This will be the second business college in Canada to be fully air-conditioned, the other one being in Winnipeg.

THE BOMBER PRESS LOOKS OVER ENGLAND

(By Walter R. Legge in collaboration with C. V. Charters)

Being the first in a series of articles on Canadian Forces in England written especially for the weekly newspapers of Canada by their two representatives on a sponsored tour of England.

To pay a visit to England under present day conditions, it is first necessary to have government permission or invitation. In the case of the recent visit by Canadian editors, the trip was the result of a suggestion by General McNaughton that a party of Canadian editors should be given an opportunity to see just how the Canadian forces were living and training overseas.

Two weekly editors were asked to become members of the party and the choice fell to C. V. Charters, managing director of the C. W. N. A. and Walter R. Legge, immediate past president of the association.

After brief preparation, the party assembled in Montreal, and prepared to leave for England by Bomber Ferry Command.

Preparation for the trip gives the first definite feeling that one is entering the war zone when the "briefing" takes place. This is a long and serious procedure involving a very complete check of your passports, life details and credentials. Following the clerical details, the prospective voyager is fitted with parochute harness.

This is a heavy and cumbersome affair which has to be fitted quite tightly and leaves the victim feeling that he issomething like a trussed ox. After receiving full instructions on how to operate the parachute, measurements are taken for the flying suit which is necessary in most flights which are made at varying heights from 10,000 to 25,000 feet.

Next comes fitting and instructions in the used of an oxygen mask, also necessary at those great heights.

Baggage, which is limited to 40 lbs. is weighed in, and after some further details, the passengers are sent back to the hotel with instructions to await a call.

On comparing notes after this routine, we found that nearly every menber of the party was told a different story as to when we might start. Some were told that there was no plane available while others were told to be ready at 8.30 the next morning, and others were instructed to expect a call sometime in the middle of the night.

This is probably part of the plan to keep movements as secret as possible. Actually the cars called for us at th hotel early the next morning.

The plane arranged for us was a large four motored Liberator, which had been fitted with two long benches for us to sit on. Seven of our party had left a couple of days before, but other passengers with us made the party up to 13, a fact which did not seem to bother anyone.

Several in the party were going into the air for th efirst time and could not escape a feeling of trepidation. Those big machines give a feeling of tremendous power and it did not seem strange to be far above the clouds in a few minutes.

The amount of room in the plane was surprising, and while there was not enough space for everyone to lie down, it was not really crowded. The noise isdeafening, and prevents any lengthy conversation. There is really nothing to do but read, but did not seem a long time before we were over Newfoundland. This is the real way to see just what the country is like, and the plane coming down to about 5,000 feet, we hada fine view of the country and could really appreciate the amount of inlets, bays, lakes and trees making a beautiful sight from that height. Settlements are few and far between. Four and a half hours after leaving Montreal, we were gently down at a huge airport in Newfoundland. Here we were given a pass and taken to Eastbound Inn for dinner. One interesting thing about Newfoundland is that it seems to be impossible to get anything but tinned milk. The airport is so large that transportation is necessary to move around it very much, so that we really did not see much of it. A railway train attracted our attention and the engine carried a message painted on its sides. 'Britain Delivers the Goods.'

After a stop of about four hours, the party embarked again, this time with only eleven passengers as two who left Montreal were bound only for Newfoundland.

We settled as well as we could for a long tedious night as the plane steadily forged ahead at high speed. Looking through the small windows we could seea breath-taking vista of a fleecy floor of clouds brilliantly illuminated by the moon. The longest night comes to an end, and soon after a wonderful sunrise, views of Northern Ireland could be obtained through breaks in the clouds. The views of the Irish countryside, which looked like an old fashioned patchwork qiult will always remain as one of the most beautiful sights we have ever seen. Soon we approached our destination and the pilot set the huge plane down with hardly a tremor.

Our formalities with the customs and immigration were expedited, and after breakfast that we had not enough time to finish, we started on the train journey to London, a journey which took longer than the trip from America. Everyone has to look after his own baggage these days on the English railways, and space on the trains is at a premium. The first group of our party were forced to stand up for hours on this long trip, but we were more fortunate in that respect, although we had nothing to eat all day until late at night at London.

We have described the trip across the Atlantic in some detail, but until after our return to Canada, when we can write in leisure, only the outline of our activities will be given. It has been announced that we would have four days to rest up after our arrival, but we soon wondered just what they meant by "rest." Every moment seemed to be crowded with some appointment. Saturday was taken p with registration, and application for ration cards, photos for our passes of which there were so many that Mr Napier Moore claimed that he had to buy a duffle bag to hold them.

Just before noon, we had a conference with the Canadian High Commissioner, Hon. Vincent Massey at which he welcomed the editors. In the course of this informal discussion Mr Massey remarked there were too few Canadian resident correspondents against 15 Australian and about 200 American. For lunch we were taken to the Canadian Officer's Club, which is near Canada House, and found Mrs Vincent Massey behind a counter serving the meal. The programme for Sunday was a full one. Starting out thetwo representatives of the weekly press attended early service at St. Martinlin-the-fields. Then after a hurried breakfast, the whole party started off in cars to visit a farm which had won many medals as the best farm in Berkshire. This will be described in more detail in subsequent articles. After a close study of thls farm, we went on to Maidenhead, on the banks of theThames for luncheon. Windsor Castle was the objective for the afternoon, and a couple of hours were spent in this historical place. After the long journey back, some of the party were not too tired to go and listen to the orators in Hyde Park.

Monday was an even more exacting day. Lengthy visits were paid to Canadian Red Cross Headquarters, a Canadian Legion Hostel, the Salvation Army hostel on Southampton Row, the Y. M. C. A. hostel on Leinster Court Road, the Knights of Columbus hostel in the same street, the Maple Leaf Club, the Union Jack Club, and the Beaver Club. Then we visited the Daily Telegraph, the Reuters Building, and ended up late at night at the Daily Telegraph.

In each of these places we went up and down stairs and through room after rom so that most of us welcomed our beds.

On Tuesday the High Commissioner gave luncheon for the members of the party which was a notable affair in that much valuable information was secured. After visits to various places in the afternoon, the day concluded with a visit to the Daily Express.

Wednesday morning was spent at theBritish Ministry of Information, and at noon we met Major General the Hon. P. J. Montague who is senior officer of the Canadian Military Headquarters.

This conference lasted some time, after which detailed instructions concerning the forthcoming trip were given and we prepared to really start work the next day.

The summary of our activities will continue in thenext article and more detailed accounts of the various phases of our activities will follow later.

SCOUTS

SHANGHAI BOY SCOUTSCARRY ON

A letter dated in March indicates that a number of Boy Scouts are still carrying on in Shanghai, "working very hard raising vegetables and keeping some live stock. It is proving a mose difficult period, and many parents are almost destitute."

BOY SCOUT COMMANDO TRAINING

"This I can tell you, I am very thankful to Scouting," wrote a British Scoutmaster, now a member of a Commando unit. "Each man in a Commando has to go through the training a Boy Scout goes through from the Tenderfoot stage, with a few additions. When I see a Scout troop at work I think to myself, 'By Jove, here's another Commando almost ready to take its place in the fighting line."

Churchill's Most Famous Generals

The three most famous generals I have known in my life won no great battles over the foreign foe. Yet their names, which all begin with "B," are household words. They are General Botha and General Baden-Powell. To General Booth we owe the Salvation Army, to General Botha, United South Africa, and to General Baden-Powell the Boy Scout Movement. - - - Winston.

Tinfoil Every Saturday

For many months over a hundred Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubshave spent every Saturday morning sorting, stripping and baling tinfoil for the McKinnon Guild of the Winnipeg Children's Hospital.

A NIGHT WATCHMAN

STRATHMORE does need a Night Watchman, and he should be paid from the Town Taxes not by the contribution of a few of the business men or merchants in Town.

The argument that because of the prevailing quiet of our town due to the exigencies of war we do not need a Night Watchman is not a correct sizing up o fthe situation.

Neither is it much of a compliment to the men who have donned His Majesty's uniform.

These were not they who committed whatever depredations there were, in former years.

As far as we can recall these were from outside. Strathmore has been happily free of any such untoward doings in recent years, the fact that we have had a vigilant Night Watchman, who conscientiously carried on his duty in heat and cold, summer and winter, undoubtedly having the desired effect.

Fires too from most innocent but careless citizens might cause a blaze that could in a short time destroy thousands of dollars of property. Today with the shortage of lumber and building material it might not be possible to repair much of the loss thus created.

In this case we do not have to go hunting for a man for the job. We have in town a Veteran of the last war, one who has the time, and would ably fill the place.

We recommend to the Town Council that they lock the stable door before the horse is stolen by securing a night Watchman at once, and that his stipend be paid from the taxes of the town. Thus would everyone receiving the benefit bear a share in the upkeep.

FIRE PREVENTION

Will Your Child Be Burned To Death Through Your Negligence?

LAST YEAR the Fire Demon numbered among his victims in Canada 323 men, women and children.. In 1940, 102 children lost their lives by fire, while in 1941, the lives of 117 of our little ones were claimed. This is a staggering admission and the responsibility for such tragedies can in many cases be laid directly to the negligence of parents who far too often leave their helpless infants alone in the house while they visit neighbors or go to the show. These holocausts frequently occur in rural districts where neighbors are long distances away and the parents are unable to reach their burning home in time to save their children from a horrible death. Every parent should realize that it is his (and her) duty to teach children the principles of fire prevention. They should not be allowed to play with fire, matches should be kept out of their reach and playing with celluloid toys should be discouraged. By a strict adherence to the use of common sense, parents can thus save themselves the bitter anguish and life-long regret which must be ever present when a child perishes by their neglect.

Fire Prevention Week— October 4 to 10, should be observed throughout the year.

Shooting parties, camping in the open, carry a greater responsibility during these golden autumn days than they ever carried before. The lighting and extinguishing of camp fires, if not properly attended to with every precaution being taken, may end in disaster and tragedy.

Carelessness with fire might soon destroy the abundant forage crops, which are so much needed to overcome the present beef shortage.

"WHO WILL ANSWER TO THE CALL?"

THE Town Council needs more men on its board. The present Councillors are quietly but none the less earnestly soliciting additions to their numbers.

We need some public spirited men who will give of their time and interest and understanding for the welfare of the Town.

THE ALASKA HIGHWAY

IT is regretable that we had to wait for the demands and dangers of war to build this Alaska Highway and the Chain of Airports which are linking the south with northern outposts.

By these lines of communication great fields of wealth will be opened up, providing work and homes for thousands of men, and material for the manufacture of much and varied modern machinery.

Western Canadians are partially asleep to this great development that lies right at our doors. We must arouse to the possibilities thereof.

WHEATLAND S. D.

The Board of Trustees of the Wheatland Scool Division held their regular monthly meeting on Friday, Sept. 25th.

The resignation of Miss L. E. Fortems as teacher of the Jr. room at Namaka, owing to ill health, was accepted Mrs. Joan Sorensen has been appointed to fill the position commencing October 1st.

Mr. A. Munkacsi, teacher of Layden school has joined the Medical Corps, of the Army and Mrs. Cammeart, of Rockyford, has been appointed to fill the position temporarily.

Mr. MacLeod gave a report of the Teachers Institute meetings held throughtout the Division during the early part of Sept. showing that all but one teacher had managed to attend to one of these meetings in spite of the bad roads. The meetings were very successful and benificial to the staff.

The new schools at Berta Vale and Orange Valley have been completed and furnaces installed and school is now being held in both of the new buildings. They are well insulated and properly lighted and are a decided improvement over the old quarters.

HIGH IDEALS

BY S. G. WARE

High Ideals and Health was the subject of an interesting address given by Mr. Ware of Vancouver at the local High School Wednesday afternoon. The address was replete with advice on the benefit of sound foundations for a child's life.

He gave an illustration of Dr. Dean Carpenter of Exeter Cathedral Eng. Dr. Carpenter was in Canada about 3 years ago, and in speaking to the young people, said they had time to grow up and to see things as they are.

Mr. Ware pressed on the students the importance of Good Ideals and Christian standing and to have healthy bodies and healthy minds.

Mr. Ware is representing the social Hygiene of Western Canada.

SOME MIST

The colonel of a regiment, making a night tour of a certain camp, was challenged by a sentry who had been standing at his post for two hours in a driving rain.

"Who's there?" said the sentry.

"Friend," replied the colonel..

"Welcome to our mist!" said the sentry.

THE STRATHMORE STANDARD

CYCLING IN THE NATIONAL PARKS

Seeing Canada's National Parks 'on a wheel' rather than 'behind a wheel' is becoming increasingly popular now adays. Gas and rubber restrictions are gradually compelling motorists to put away their cars for the duration of the war, or at least to cut down radically on the distance they travel for pleasure. The result is an army of cyclists on the roads and this army is likely to grow still larger as motoring difficulties increase.

In the national parks cyclists may be seen gaily pedalling along the highways enjoying the scenery and the flower-scented atmosphere as they never could have done from the interior of a closed car. They see and hear and feel the country and are on intimate terms with nature. They have time for a careful survey of the scenes around each bend in the road, at the crest of each hill, and down in the quiet flower-bedecked valleys.

From their bicycles they hear the songs of the birds, the rustling of wild animals in the undergrowth, and the tinkling sound of small streams almost hidden in the forest. They have a cheery greeting for everyone they meet on the highway; they imitate the call of the moose or the cry of the loon in the marshy edges of a lake, and they whistle the notes of many of the song birds merrily singing from near-by trees. Frequently they are able to get glimpses and perhaps photographs of wild life which will remain a treasured memory of their visit to the national parks.

These cyclists may be tired and hungry at the end o fthe day, but it will be a tiredness devoid of nervous tension. Undoubtedly cyclists will feel fatigued if they try to cover too great a distance in a day, but it will be a physical rather than a mental fatigue. Usually, after the kind of sleep which comes in the parks, they are just as fresh and keen as ever.

Autumn is perhaps the best itme of the year for cycling in the national parks. Motor traffic on the park highways has by now diminished considerably. The days, though beginning to shorten, are bright and crisp; fish are biting well and bird life seems more abundant than ever. Big game come down to the road-side and are a common sight along the park highways. Camera hunters reap a rich harwest of special trophies for the snapshot album. The woods are a riot of colour, orange, gold, green, crimson and many other widely variegated combinations which nature blends into a harmonious pattern for its own special fall showing.

Truly a cycling tour of the national parks at this time of the year is a never to be forgotten experience.

Avoid Waste of Coal

Conservation of the national fuel supply is so important that the War time Prices and Trade Board coal administrator urges that furnace fires be not started until absolutely necessary. Large apartment houses, shops and departmental stores frequently keep fires going for the season, once they are lighted, regardless of any moderation of the temperature.

FLAX RUST

No less than 135 distinct species of fungi causing rust diseases have been collected in Manitoba alone. Rust diseases are common not only on our cereal crops, but on hollyhocks, dandelions, roses, goldenrod, spruce trees, willows, poplars, snapdragons, wild grasses, sunflowers and a wide variety of other plants.

All rust fungi are obligate parasites. That is to say, they can only live and reproduce on living plants. Some, such as the one causing stem rust of wheat, require two different host plants to complete their life cycles. The stem rust organism develops red and black spores on wheat and other grasses. The red spores multiply and produce new infections, while the black spores live through the winter and germinate in the spring. When they germinate, they produce small short-lived spores which cannot infect wheat, but only the barberry. Infections develop on the barberry and a still different type of spore is produced which can infect wheat. We have no barberrys in Western Canada, so each spring we depend upon spores imported from the United States to start our epidemics.

But flax rust is different. When the black spores germinate in the spring, the tiny spores they produce can infect flax directly. Herein lies an important moral. Rusted wheat straw lying about the field in fall and spring is harmless. Rust flax straw and stubble are likely to produce a crop of spores which will infect nearby flax fields. So, burn all rusted flax straw and plow under stubble in the fall if it will not burn. Next year sow flax as far away as possible from where flax grew this year.

YOU SLEPT WELL THAT NIGHT, DIDN'T YOU?

BUT GEORGE WAS AT DIEPPE!

NICE fellow, George—one of the lads from the office. Remember, you had him out for dinner one night. He made a great fuss over your kids—and your wife was very pleased. And then, all of a sudden, he slipped away and joined up. Left his good job, his girl and his future. And he was at Dieppe, slogging up the beach into a murderous rain of steel—fighting for you and your wife and those kids of yours he played with. And that same night you slept well, didn't you . . . in a soft bed. You had an egg for breakfast too. But George didn't. And you've still got a good job and you wear good clothes.

And being conscientious, you worry about these things a bit. But you just haven't been able to push yourself into doing much more than pay your taxes. Well, those taxes aren't enough. Think of what George gave up, and then sit down with your wife and ask yourselves, "What else can we do?" Sure, you've given up a few little luxuries. But there are lots of things yet that you can cut down on. Do it gladly. Because you'll really get a kick out of investing the money you save in Victory Bonds, and in knowing you're not letting George do it all.

Just keep thinking about George and what he gave up. And remember, those Victory Bonds you buy aren't giving—they're lending your country money to help protect you. That money will come back to you with interest.

WORK—SAVE AND LEND FOR VICTORY!

NATIONAL WAR FINANCE COMMITTEE

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

Canadians are not a race of vegetarians. But if we can't buy meat as we have been used to do, some adjustment will have to be made. Some communities have already felt the pinch of the meat shortage. If yours hasn't felt it yet it will soon. So start thinking about it now.

Men and women ontough jobs need meat. Meat is a tissue builder and tissue replacer. No substitute for such people is "just as good." Therefore if you have a dock hand in your home, a farm hand, a war worker in munitions plant who is doing hard physical labour, give him or her what meat you can get.

Remember that the housewife has a tough job a difficult job, but she does not burn up the protein calories that a shipbuilder does. Housewives, people working at sedentary jobs, nearly all children, can get their protein requirements from milk, cheese, eggs, beans and nuts. For a limited period that is absolutely true. Over an extended period it remains comparatively true. Let your war worker on a strenuous physical job, have the meat. He needs it.

Of course, we all need meat, Bernard Shaw to the contrary. So sometimes when you can get it, give the whole family a treat. Meat pie, where the meat is supplemented by well cooked vegetables and covered with a flaky pastry crust goes much further than the same meat cooked by itself. Try rolling sausages in pastry crust and baking them. Two will take the place of four.

And here's a tip—— we're shipping hams and bacon to Great Britain who needs them desperately. Did you know that that leaves us with a tremendous surplus of pork liver and kidney? So, instead of ordering a ham why not make a pork kidney pie. It is actually much more nutritious than the ham you can't have.

And here's a recipe for liver loaf that your family will like even if they think they can't eat liver.

Liver Loaf— 1 lb. pork liver, 2 c. bread crumbs, 1 medium onion, 1¾ c. tomato juice or vegetable juice, 1 tsp. salt. Put liver through the meat grinder. Add bread crumbs, onion, tomato and salt. Put in greased baking dish and place in pan containing warm water. Bake slowly 30 to 40 minutes.

UNITED CHRISTIAN ADVANCE IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

A fair audience assembled in the St. Michael's Church Wednesday evening at the service of Christian Education Advance.

Rev. E. J. Hoad conducted the service and extended a welcome to Rev. S. R. Hunt who gave the address. Mr. Hoad also expressed his pleasure in participating in this forward and beneficial movement.

Mr.. Hunt gave a thoughtful and challenging address basing his remarks on the text—"And they were all amazed insomuch that they questioned among themselves saying, What thing is this? What new doctrine is this? for with what authority commandeth he even the unclean spirts, and they do obey him." (Mark1-27)

Mr. Hunt stressed the strength, of Christ's teaching, when the villagers who were present though strangers and not followers of the Messiah were amazed and convinced of His power and the authority with which he spoke. The speaker felt perhaps leaders in the religious world of today too frequently lacked the convincing authority of truth that Christ displayed.

He strongly urged the Home to be the foundation of Christianity co-operating fully with the Church.

The Youth of today are desirous of standards and examples by which they may be guided on life's pathway. Mr. Hunt strongly urged each parent to s. live and manifest this sincere purpose that it will make itself felt and so become a power for the upbuilding of our Nation.

A meeting will be held in the United Church Friday evening with Rev. E. J. Hoad as speaker.

A full attendance of interested young people, parents and teachers is expected.

Mrs Ole Woldum from Decorah, Iowa is visiting at the home of Mr and Mrs Nels Woldum and other friends in the district.

HAD TO EXPLAIN

Mrs. Newwed:"Henry, I thought you told me that your bank loaned money on notes."

Mr. Newwed:"So it does, dear. Why?

Mrs. Newwed: "Well, it doesn't. I sent the maid down there with a note telling them I wanted to borrow $100 and they wouldn't give it to her."
